Dear Ms. Barrett:

As the president of the Gainesville Chamber Orchestra, I am writing this letter to express our organizations deepest thanks. Your station helped rescue us from a very unique and urgent situation. With weather reports on the horizon last week we were faced with a difficult situation. Continue to prepare for a musical event on the Downtown Plaza on Saturday evening or change to an indoor venue which would offer the safety and protection for our patrons as well as musicians and their instruments. Our conductor held almost hourly consultations with your top meteorologist during the day on Thursday April 3rd. We tried at the time to find a venue that could accommodate the number of people "on stage" as well as an anticipated crowd of 300+ people.

We were having little success in locating an appropriate site. The minute we were done with our children's concert on Friday morning we were again in hot pursuit of a venue. The Gainesville Women's Club finally came through on Friday at 1 PM. Then we mapped our strategy to let the public know that the location had been changed. One of your employees, Tim Hoskinson, who is also a member of our board of directors, then put us in touch with the "right" people. They included Brett Bueli, News director; Ro Bates, Production Manager and Beth Eng, Account Executive who all worked together to have our ad that was running quickly retooled to announce the change in location.

The story was also announced on the Friday evening news cast. When on Saturday evening it started pouring at five minutes until seven we knew we had made the right decision. The Gainesville Women's Club was packed and we had a large group of very dry, happy patrons and musicians. The fantastic turn out occurred in no small way due to your TV station's help. I ran into so many people the following two days who were not in attendance, but had heard the story and wanted to know how it had turned out. I said, "magnificently."

We have felt satisfied with our association with your station this year and feel that having the promotions on your station has greatly enhanced the size of the crowds who have been attending our concerts.

Again please accept my sincere thank you for the effort WCJB put into our last minute plans. The larger than imagined crowd made our musicians perform at their best. It was a wonderful concert enjoyed by all present.

With warm regards,

Lynda M. Bucciarelli

Recently you ran a story of a father who was leaving for Iraq, taking his daughter to her senior prom. THANK YOU, for allowing the viewers to see Black families in a positive setting. Paige,

You looked great with Bert last night and it was perfect having the young students right after that. Thanks for putting them on....and I love that Staey filmed the mice and you did the Ratatouelli connection, it will interesting to see if any of those young students end up in the program.

Bert is mentoring more of my students this summer, he is really good with them. I love that section of the news, you two make it look easy, fun and nutritious. I hear so many comments on that segment and people are always commenting on it.

Thanks for all you do

Dear Supporters,

The Military Support Group of Alachua County would like to send our heartfelt thanks for the public service announcements that you made enabling us to continue to support our troops that are serving overseas, primarily in Iraq and Afghanistan. These announcements brought new members, addresses of local soldiers and much needed supplies. As you know, we collect, package and send items that the troops need overseas. More importantly, we let them know that we support and think of them while they serve our country and work to keep us safe and to preserve the freedoms that all Americans enjoy.

We also provide support to the families of the military personnel in our local area by providing a bi-weekly get together for community and service by packing and sending these boxes of supplies to their loved ones. It is wonderful to see these families come and share with other people the letters they have received and to know that they are not alone.

The public service announcements are much needed and very appreciated. We will be getting thank you notes from those soldiers in a few weeks telling us how great it was to get a package from home. Again, Thank You!

Sincerely,

Dear Bob,

I just wanted you to know how much I appreciate all the support you and TV 20 provided this summer for both our summer registration campaign and our Back to School Fair at the Oaks Mall. The turnout at the Fair was incredible. We were busy non-stop from half an hour before the event officially started until half an hour after it was supposed to end. Many people who stopped at my table told me they saw the announcement on TV 20, so I know that really helped boost the crowd.

We're keeping our fingers crossed that this year more folks will have registered for school before school actually started. I've heard many people say they saw the PSA, so certainly parents have heard the message.

Again, thanks again for your help in getting some very important information about to parents. As a result of your support, many more students and families will have a smoother start to the school year. TV 20 continues to be a terrific partner!

Sincerely,

P.S. I've attached some copies of the new school calendar...it was a very popular giveaway at the fair, and I thought you might find it useful. JJ

Hello Paige:

Thank you for checking – we were very happy w/ the attendance – auction sales etc. Your cookies were a hit! Everyone was so surprised when I explained what/who and how – just reading about them didn't seem to sink in. They sold for $55.00. The lady who bought them was as excited about the idea that you made them as she was being high bidder.

When are you going to retire? I wish you could enjoy some of the functions you support.

Thank you again for your efforts.

I hope last night was a big success...did you have a good turnout? If you get the time would you mind emailing me at home and let me know if my cookies etc sold and if so ..how much. I like to get an idea of what works best when I do a silent auction. I would be mortified if something didn't sell :)

Hello Faye,

Here is the description for my auction item.

"Imagine an evening of chocolate comfort when go you home tonight.

That is what WCJB's Paige Beck is offering you. She has prepared 4 dozen double chocolate chip cookie dough balls. You even get the cookie sheet!

All you have to do is drop a dozen dough balls on the sheet and wait for the magic to happen.

But wait there is more..you also get organic milk.

A night of cookies and milk!

We are all kids at heart.

(Faye I will include the directins..but basically you only have to put the balls on the no stick foil that is placed sheet..and bake at 375 for 8 minutes. You back them frozen and then let cool on the pan for a few minutes until they are set. I wil also provide the foil..)

Start the bid at 45 dollars..trust me its worth it....:) paige

As a member of the Family Support Committee and Support Partner of Shirley Williams, 6/29 subject of 5:30 PM news story, I appreciate the coverage by Channel 20. However, there was a very important piece of misinformation that was broadcast during this coverage. News anchor Dave stated that one of the requirements for inclusion in the Habitat for Humanity home program was that the candidates must pay 40% of their bills. That statement, though unintentional and written by someone other than the anchor, belittles the status of Habitat homeowners and their accomplishments.

The correction to that statement is that Habitat for Humanity candidates, as one of their requirements, must have a 40% or less debt to income ratio, meaning that their basic expenses (rent, car, energy, etc. costs) must not exceed 40% of their monthly gross pay.

Dear Gavin:

I just wanted you to know how well your coverage of our Holocaust Remembrance Day program was received by our community on April 15, 2007, 11:00 PM news. Even though this is a VERY belated message of appreciation for your fine coverage, it is nonetheless sent with much sincerity. We consider ourselves fortunate to have had your assistance regarding our event.

Your style was both respectful and serious without being morbid, both during the taping and on the air. I think you conveyed the essence and the purpose of remembering those lost many years ago during the WWII era.

I particularly thought that the split screen and your being dressed in a suit and tie was perfect. It could not have been more appropriate. Thanks again.

Very truly:

Dear Karen and the WCJB staff:

Thank you for inviting our airing the 2006 Chicago Thanksgiving Day Parade on December 31st. You were very supportive of our students and community. Our Lake Weir High School Marching "Hurricane" Band students were very excited to be recognized on TV-20 for their participation in the Chicago Parade.

During the return trip, I again complimented our kids on their outstanding performance in the parade and their positive behavior throughout the trip. It is rare that students receive recognition for their accomplishments. Unfortunately, kids usually get headlines for doing something wrong.

I applaud you and WCJB -TV 20 for taking the time to recognize the efforts of our young adults like this. It was a win win situation because the school and much of the community were watching back home. TV-20 gained more fans and our students gained more pride in our school.

Thank you, again, for making our band feel so proud to represent Florida. It was indeed a thrill of a lifetime.

Sincerely,
